[illegible] Court's Decision

DENVER January [illegible] The supreme court [illegible] handed down its decision in the legislative contest case in favor of the combine After reciting the case as presented to them and as heretofore published in these dispatches the opinion says

It was urged in argument with great force that this court ought not to express any opinion upon the question presented by the executive for the reason that it would be an interference with matters pertaining exclusively to the legislative department of the government and [illegible] in conflict with article 3 of the constitution which divides the powers of the state into three distinct departments the legislative executive and judicial and forbids those of one department from exercising any power properly belonging to either of the others except as in this constitution expressly directed or permitted

We have heretofore endeavored to [illegible] somewhat the class of subjects upon which the opinion of this court might be required From the foundation of representative government in this country the general rule as announced by standard American authors on parliamentary law has been that the legislative body of a state having the power to choose its own speaker from [illegible] own members has also the inherent power to remove such officer at its will or pleasure unless inhibited from so doing by some constitutional or other controlling provision of law Such is the doctrine announced in the Manual of Parliamentary Practice

It is however contended on constitutional grounds that the house of representatives of this state does not have the power by a vote or resolution of the house to remove the speaker from office [illegible] that such power does exist according to common parliamentary law It is conceded that the constitution nowhere expressly forbids such removal but it is claimed that by virtue of certain constitutional provisions the power of the house to thus remove the speaker from office is prohibited by implication The ground upon which this claim is based is that the speaker is a state officer and can be removed from office only by impeachment (Constitution article [illegible]) It is claimed that the speaker is a state officer because he is charged with the duty of receiving opening and publishing the election returns of state officers in the presence of both houses of the general assembly

These provisions in our judgment fall short of establishing the proposition that a member of the house of representatives by virtue of his election to the office of speaker becomes a state officer so that he is thereby exempted from the discipline and control of the house as a member and officer thereof It is true the speaker of the house may in a certain contingency be required to discharge certain duties in connection with the administration of the state government but he must at all times so long as he is the speaker be a member of the house of representatives The house has no authority to elect a person not a member to the speakership A member by virtue of his election as speaker does not lose his character or status as a member On the contrary he retains his status as a member in order to hold the office of speaker His rights and privileges as a member are in no way impaired by his election to the speakership nor are his emoluments increased thereby His speakership is dependent upon his membership

There appears to be no substantial reason for concluding that the duty of receiving opening and publishing the election returns for officers of the executive department before both houses of the general assembly was devolved upon the speaker on the ground that he is a state officer nor do we see how the devolving of such duty upon the speaker in any way tends to make him a state officer any more than it makes state officers of all the members of the general assembly who are required to participate in the canvass of such returns No reason appears why any of the special duties devolved upon the speaker by the constitution may not as well be performed by any member holding the office of speaker at the time when the contingency occurs

[illegible] when the speaker does not derive his office from the suffrages of the electors throughout the state nor is he chosen for any specific term as is the case with the officers of the executive department with whom it is sought to classify him as a state officer Indeed the mode of choosing the speaker is not in any manner provided for by the constitution The provision is simply The house of representatives shall elect one of its members as speaker leaving the manner of his election and the tenure of his office to the will of the body from which he derives his office according to common parliamentary law Several legal authorities were then recited bearing out the opinion

The constitution of Colorado not only provides that Each house shall be judge of the election and qualification of its members article 5 section 10 [illegible] of the same article further provides Each house shall have power to determine the rules of its proceedings and punish its members or other persons for contempt or disorderly behavior in its presence to enforce obedience to its process This grant of power is plenary and except as otherwise provided by the constitution itself is exclusive when exercised within legitimate limits and conclusive upon every department of the government

[illegible] power is granted to the house not [illegible] of the house and is to be exercised by a majority of the members The exclusive nature of this power is in no way affected by the fact that the other departments of the government the executive and judicial are [illegible] free and independent within their respective spheres of jurisdiction The power of expulsion is a necessary and incidental power to enable the house to perform its high functions and is necessary to the safety of the state It is a power of protection

[illegible] maintain the same opinion declares that this power must exist in every aggregate and deliberative body, in order to [illegible]

[illegible] in accordance with the will of such majority

Another argument [illegible] is that [illegible] the removal by vote [illegible] of the house is that if the speaker [illegible] such an officer as is liable to removal from office by impeachment then he must be [illegible] under the section of the constitution which provides that all officers [illegible] not liable to impeachment shall be subject to removal for misconduct or malfeasance in office in such manner as may be provided by law And it is contended that the words may be provided by law refer only to statutory law

If we adopt the construction thus contended for then the speaker not being liable to impeachment and no statute having been adopted providing for his removal can not be removed at all But it is obvious that such a construction cannot be adopted without placing some limit upon the word officers as used As we have seen the house is authorized to choose other officers as well as the speaker It certainly cannot be maintained that the subordinate officers of the house having once been chosen and not liable to impeachment cannot be removed however unworthy or unfit they may be because no statute has been provided for their removal

It is plausibly urged against the power of the house to remove its speaker by vote or resolution that during the 100 years of representative government in this country under written constitutions not a single instance has occurred where the speaker of the national house or the speaker of any state legislature has been removed This assertion may be true as a matter of fact yet as we have seen during all this time the power thus to remove such officers has been plainly written in our standard authorities upon parliamentary law and no precedent has been cited or come to our attention denying the correctness of the law thus declared Indeed the works of Jefferson and Cushing supra have been uniformly accepted as authoritative throughout the United States in the absence of constitutional provisions or special laws or rules to the contrary

Upon investigation and reflection we are satisfied that as a purely legal proposition the house of representatives has the power by the vote of a majority of the whole number of members elected to remove its speaker from office in the manner stated in the executive communication submitted Any other conclusion would in our opinion be antagonistic to the fundamental principle of representative government that the majority of each legislative body has the power to control the action of such body within the limits of its jurisdiction except as otherwise provided by positive law and that such majority must assume and bear the responsibility for the exercise of such powers

We concur in the foregoing conclusions stated by Mr Justice Elliott

Message No. [illegible] From the East:

PHILADELPHIA PENNSYLVANIA, January 19, 1891

To MY CUSTOMERS AND THE PUBLIC

The predictions heading this column in my letter of December 27, 1890, have been fully realized The monetary stringency which marked the early days of last month is a thing of the past [illegible] confidence is fully restored Investors and speculators, who cancel in their money during the temporary panic are seeking new channels for its investment Stocks and bonds are already returning to the place they held before the recent decline Money is easy The Bank of England has reduced its discount rate to four per cent and the future has a prosperous outlook Real Estate in Colorado Springs must feel the "BOOMING" effects of this renewed life and I believe the year 1891 will mark the most prosperous era in our history. Property will greatly advance in value and it is part of wisdom for buyers to INVEST NOW AND REALIZE THE ADVANCE [illegible]

Below I offer a LIST OF PROPERTIES FOR SALE UNEXCELLED FOR VARIETY AND EXCELLENCE and as I will shortly follow this letter to Colorado Springs I hope soon to assist my friends in making their selections and I believe that before the year is out, I will receive their thanks for recommending them to purchase

Respectfully,

M I DeCoursey,
Real Estate Agent.

Printed copies of Senator McGovney's bill regulating fees have been received in this city. Persons about the court house who have examined the bill and are familiar with the fee system state that it is in general a very good measure but that there are inequalities between counties of the first and second class. If there are any such they will probably be made satisfactory by the time of final passage of the bill

The following needs little comment or explanation. It is a story of pathetic realism which will have its influence on many people in this city

STATE OF KANSAS,
COUNTY OF SHERMAN } ss.

In the matter of destitution in Kit Carson county, Colorado: Personally came before me, a notary public in and for aforesaid county and state, John Konig a citizen of Kit Carson county, state of Colorado, well known to me to be reputable and entitled to credit, and who being duly sworn, on oath declares as follows

I am in destitute circumstances, having a wife and two small children depending on me for living; have lived in —— part of Kit Carson county, Colorado, nearly three years; am at present living with family on corn cracked with a hammer; I have no means whereby I can purchase or obtain food or coal. Being a German and unable to speak the American language, have thus far been unable to secure any work.

JOHANN KONIG

Sworn and subscribed before

CHAS F WEBER, Notary Public.

A man who gets up in the morning and cracks corn with a hammer to feed his wife and children will be glad to get some of the things sent yesterday from this city. Additional liberal contributions were received yesterday. Within a few days we expect to give a report from that section of what has been accomplished and also to state definitely what more is needed. The contributions of the school children on Monday will be especially acceptable. If the suggestions are observed that they be articles of food not perishable, and that each package be plainly marked to indicate its contents.

THE DECISION.

The anxiously expected decision of the supreme court has at last arrived. It is in favor of the "combine," and declares that a legislative body has an undoubted right to depose its speaker by a majority vote of the members of the house

We hope that there will be a prompt and hearty acquiescence with this decision. No one will be inclined to claim that the honorable judges of the supreme court were unfairly prejudiced or were guided by anything but the law of the case. Unfortunate as some of the results of their decision may be, none other is possible now, and acquiescence with it is the only way open to progress in legislation and the continuance of government.

But a decision which establishes the legality of the action of the "combine" in deposing Speaker Hanna does not by any means establish the wisdom of such a course or excuse the party treachery of Mr. Brown and his fellows, or prove their good faith. A great many things which the law permits are in the highest degree foolish or disgraceful. The power of deposing the speaker is one which should be guarded as a last resort against autocracy. But it is indeed unfortunate if the organization of the house, its committees and rules are to be upset and altered by any majority combination which the circumstances of the moment may happen to bring. The outlook is not favorable for a house operating under such conditions and comprising such men as the bolters have shown themselves to be. It would be a bold prophet who would guarantee to Speaker White a longer term than Speaker Hanna. That which distinguishes government from anarchy, law from lawlessness and parliamentary change from revolution is method, carefulness and deliberation. It is the mob which acts first and thinks afterwards, it is a lynch court which hangs the prisoner and then tries him, and it is not fancied personal slights or even fears of injustice or indefinite accusations of bribery that can justify so radical a course as that pursued by the "combine"

However, the decision does establish the legality of the unwise proceedings of the bolting republicans, and now that they have their own way, what we all most desire is to see them settle down to work, make up for lost time, prove the sincerity of their protestations of devotion to reform and give us much needed laws in a clean, industrious economical session

BRIBERY AND REVOLUTION.

To the Editor of the Gazette

DEAR SIR—The stand you have taken in the present state legislative controversy seems to me to be inconsistent with the independent attitude of your paper in the past. You claim to have taken sides with good government as against revolutionary methods. I can hardly upon what grounds you can consider that the minority in the present fight represent good government, as it has been conclusively proved that an attempt was made to secure support for the —, if at any price, and you will hardly claim that where good government is [illegible] it is necessary to resort to bribery and intimidation. As I am an admirer of the usual political fairness of the GAZETTE, I can hardly help [illegible] at your attitude in the present controversy.

INDEPENDENT.

The preceding communication seems to deserve a few words of answer. We fail to see that there is anything in the past and present independent attitude of the GAZETTE inconsistent with its opposition to the course taken by the bolting republicans. Our correspondent cannot be more strongly opposed to corrupt practices in the state legislature than we. We would like to see every one who attempts to corruptly influence legislators sent to the penitentiary, and every one who accepts a bribe expelled from the assembly

But at the time the action was taken by the bolting republicans, no open charges had been made in the legislature nor was there anything to base their action upon but vague and secret accusations. We must maintain that it was a mistake to try unusual and extraordinary methods when the usual safeguards for honesty had not failed nor had even been appealed to

If Mr Bowman and the other members of the legislature who claim to be familiar with the circumstances of these attempts had made their charges as a question of privilege in the course of the regular business of the house there is not in the present condition of public sentiment in the state any power that could have prevented the prompt and full investigation of the charges and the punishment of whoever was shown to be guilty

ALL RIGHT IN DENVER, BUT IN WASHINGTON

Leadville Herald Democrat.

That was a disgraceful scene in the national house of representatives Tuesday. It reflects credit on neither democrats nor republicans. Speaker Reed, by his autocratic and arbitrary rulings, has angered and embittered the democrats, who, in turn, have frequently resorted to all kinds of dilatory and obstructive tactics to prevent legislation. This has stirred up heated wrangles and petty, disgraceful squabbles, which finally end in a disgraceful and noisy brawl, in which unseemly personalities are indulged in. The worst of it all is that, just as soon as both sides become warmed up in angry discussion, it is found necessary to fight the war over again. This was forcibly illustrated in the debate (if the wrangle can be dignified by calling it such) of Tuesday, when the words "traitor," "rebel," "dishonorable man" were bandied back and forth with ever increasing heat. If such conduct is to characterize the proceedings of the house of representatives, it can hardly, in the future, lay claim to the title of being an "assembly of the first gentlemen of the land"

If these proceedings continue, their natural outcome will be that which has happened in Colorado, a combination of democrats and disaffected republicans who will depose the speaker. It is an unpleasant sign of the times that the bitterness and quarreling which seems so prevalent in the national and state legislatures arise from party strife and selfish ambition, rather than from any real desire for the public good. Speaker Reed's decisions are scarcely more than the evidence of Speaker Reed's determination to rule. There is no general demand for a previous-question rule or a force bill in the senate. This prevalence of violent partisanship and selfishness would be more discouraging than it is if it were not that when the sober and conservative elements of our population awake to the danger it will be quickly disposed of. Government must be orderly to be permanent. If republicanism is not dignified it is a failure. But a way will be found by which the strong common sense of the people will assert itself to the discomfiture of short sighted politicians. Even the pre-eminence of petty squabbling is in one way an evidence that no serious danger threatens the foundations of our liberties. In the presence of a great question, personalities and personal quarrels would suddenly disappear

Practically Unanimous.

Elbert Tribune.

Without a single important exception the republican press of Colorado denounces the republican members of the house who, without just cause or provocation, have become a part of the revolutionary combine now attempting to control that body. Quit squabbling and go to work, is the command of the people to the bolting republicans

That New County.

FLORISSANT, COLO., JAN. 22, 1891.

To the Editor of the GAZETTE

DEAR SIR—By reason of the move to create Crystal county out of territory from the west part of El Paso, the south east of Park and a small portion of the south part of Douglas and Jefferson counties, a great many contradictory statements are being circulated by the friends and enemies of the move. Of its enemies, we believe it has but few and we think it ought not to have any. Those who are using influence against it are mostly at Colorado Springs, and that influence comes from a source for which we, ourselves, have the profoundest respect. They are using their influence against us, not on the grounds of objecting to the loss of the territory, but through, what they claim, is a motherly feeling and care for our welfare and they say that we are too weak, that we will be unable to run a county government without burdening ourselves. In this we believe they are misinformed as to our strength and status. Believing the people of Colorado Springs and El Paso county to be both just and generous, as the executive head of all Crystal county campaign committees, I shall try to speak both truthfully and advisedly on the matters I propose now to submit to a candid people through the daily papers of Colorado Springs. First, let me say, the description of the boundaries as given by some of your city papers a short time since copied from the Denver papers, is correct as embodied in the bill. Its population is made up mostly of farmers, ranchmen and cattlemen and their families, a peaceable people who live and thrive by honest industry and who are yearly adding to their own property values. As some of your people know they are an isolated people, shut off from their county seats by impassable mountains and unreasonable distances. They have gradually settled this territory, built it up and are making it valuable and attractive and they are all situated from 20 to 60 miles from their county seats and some of them, in Douglas county, have to travel over 80 miles to reach their county seat unless they travel over a mountain trail. They now ask nearly unanimously to have the territory they have developed set apart as a county with a county seat, and a chance to build a market convenient to them and that they may be able thereby to concentrate their forces and bring the civilizing and Christianizing influence more directly into their midst. The proposed territory embraces 1342 square miles. Its population, as nearly as can be ascertained from the census taken last summer, is about 2500. The district lines and proposed county lines are not the same, but we can approximate it close enough for all practical purposes. The number of voters registered in the precincts wholly within its boundaries last fall was 606, and there is thought to be about 25 in other precincts in Park county who reside in the lines proposed. The assessed valuation of taxable property within its lines, as shown by the assessment of 1890, was, in El Paso county, $445,600. In Park, as shown by the estimate made and published last week in the Fairplay Flume was $423,900, but from the statements furnished by the superintendent of schools of districts wholly within the lines and a careful estimate of that falling within the lines but outside of these districts it will run upwards of $435,000. That of Douglas county is $42,539. That portion of Jefferson is included in the Park county statement, as Park county exercises jurisdiction over it. At the lowest estimate the assessed value of the taxable property as assessed in 1890 is $881,139 while other careful estimates have made it as high as $895,000. It is reasonable to suppose that with the improvements that have been and will be made during the year, the amount of property brought in by newcomers and the amount of lands proved up and made taxable, it is safe in saying that on the same basis of estimation the assessment of 1891 will reach $1,000,000 and if the county is organized we believe that it will add to the actual value of all property especially the central, and that within a reasonable distance of the railroad, that without increasing the ratio between the actual and the assessed values there will be an assessed value in 1891 of $1,200,000. If these premises are correct and we believe they are, let us see where we would stand among the counties of the state and whether we would be a helpless infant needing the nursing bottle or not. First as to population. There are fifty five counties in the state and the population of seventeen of these fall below 2000, and are, as follows to wit Archuleta 823, Bent, 1304, Cheyenne, 509, Elbert 1854, Grand 603, Lincoln, 689, Morgan, 1591, Rio Blanco, 1195, Sedgwick, 1279, Baca 1425, Dolores, 1479, Hinsdale, 858, Kiowa, 1234, Montezuma, 1759, Summit, 1642, Powers, 1967, San Juan, 1551. Then those that are over 2000 and less than 2500 are Kit Carson, 2464, Routt, 2368 and Washington, 2305. Then there are six more that run but little above and fall below 3000 to wit Douglas, 2943, Phillips, 2665, Yuma, 2594, Custer, 2948, Delta, 2533, San Miguel, 2908. Several others run less than 3500. Thus we see on the line of population 20 of the 55 counties of the state fall below us and we are but little below six more, and not far below another half dozen and many of these are old counties some of them organized in territorial times and have run county governments ever since. Let us now inquire where we would stand as to amount of taxable property and sources of revenue. In this we will not stand quite as high, but we will certainly make a creditable showing. The following figures I take from a certified statement from the auditor's office, of the total assessed value of the taxable property of each county of the state for the year 1890: Archuleta, $348,334 70, Grand, $432,707, Dolores, $491,480, Hinsdale, $518,761, Montezuma, $595,603, Sedgwick, $721,416 22, Custer, $742,376, Phillips, $814,161, San Juan, $872,304, Rio Blanco, $888,528, San Miguel, $918,748, Baca, $945,161, Delta, $991,538, Routt, $1,094,037, Summit, $1,067,020, Costilla, $1,185,063, Yuma, $1,165,003, Washington, $1,172,091 11, Eagle, $1,253,634 60, Ouray $1,255,391. Here are ten counties of the state that fall below our assessed valuation, three more that run about the same, or but little over, and fall below $1,000,000, seven more that are not above what a fair estimate of our first assessed valuation will be without raising the ratio between the assessed and actual valuation. Then there are four more that fall below $1,500,000, to wit Bent, Kiowa, Prowers and Rio Grande, with eight more that fall below $2,000,000. We submit to the candid, intelligent citizens as to whether our estimate as to the increase of assessed valuation for our first year to begin with, if organized, is not reasonable and conservative. The voters, within the boundaries as far as seen, have signed a petition to the assembly to organize said county. About 500 have signed it. But one canvass has been made, and a great many were away from home, or missed in the canvass, and we are daily receiving letters from some of these asking that their names be placed on the petitions. Of those the canvassers reached, fully nine out of ten signed the petition, those who refused were less than 50, and those who actually oppose are not over 25 in the whole bounds. In these bounds reside well nigh 100 old soldiers who defended and helped to rescue their country in her time of need. Many of them, in fact almost all of them in a greater or less degree, sacrificed their health on their country's altar

Now, to the good citizens of El Paso county residing outside of the territory asking to be organized into this new county, we will say come let us reason together. Are we asking for anything unreasonable? Are we asking for anything that will cripple you or your interests? El Paso county has an assessed valuation, without us, of $10,500,000 and doubtless her next assessment will show a gain of from $2,000,000 to $3,000,000. We are not asking for anything that will cripple any other county. Were you in our place, and we in yours, we ask you in candor what you would want us to do? From these figures I have given, you can see we will stand well up among the counties of Colorado, if organized, and you need not fear that you will have to be at the expense of procuring us a wet nurse as a matter of charity. You will not be called on to do so. We will start in stronger in all these lines mentioned than El Paso county was after she had been organized and run a county government for 10 or 12 years. Your New Year's issue of your daily papers showed that after it was organized and run for six years it only had an assessed valuation of $123,000. To those who are wielding the political influence of El Paso county and we have already said they are a people whom we hold in high esteem and if we were dealing with them individually we know they would not only be just, but generous with us, we therefore appeal to you in the name of all that we hold sacred, in the name of the brotherhood of men, in the name of two of the great principles enunciated by our revolutionary fathers of which we are all so proud, the inalienable rights to liberty and the pursuit of happiness, in the name of these 100 old soldiers we ask it. We appeal to you in the name of the right of self government which we as Americans prize so highly do not wield your political prestige for the purpose of our oppression, because we are weak in this commodity and unable to cope with you. By doing so you will retard our progress and hinder us in building up our own resources and thereby building up the interests of the state, but we ask you instead to lend us a helping hand and we will certainly appreciate the favor.

Chairman Hoyt of the relief committee in Kit Carson county left yesterday morning with his car of supplies for the sufferers. The letter [illegible] was received in this city [illegible] week ago [illegible] by mail today Mr Hoyt was [illegible] at Flagler, Seibert, Vona, Burlington and surrounding [illegible] a veritable father [illegible] The people of El Paso county have [illegible] and are doing nobly and the poor of Kit Carson were lucky in one thing at least in that they were [illegible] of a rich county.

The [illegible] work of subscribing went on yesterday and in addition to the [illegible] by Mr Hoyt as named [illegible] yesterday [illegible] there was [illegible] of beef and [illegible] Higgins & [illegible] Giddings Bros [illegible] a quantity of [illegible] early in the day. The committee purchased thirty pairs of shoes yesterday suitable for use on the [illegible] sizes to suit the orders sent in. These were purchased of A. Armentrout and P. M. Cardy at cost. Mr Hoyt's car was nearly full and the poor people of Kit Carson will have reason to believe that Christmas has been put off thirty days this year, when he arrives today.

A very handsome gift made yesterday was a car of coal sent out on the Rock Island by Mr Geo E Macklin the general agent of the Western Coal and Mining company, who mine at McFerran. The car was sent to Seibert yesterday morning.

The money subscriptions acknowledged to the GAZETTE fund yesterday morning amounted to $275. The following additional subscriptions were made yesterday:

A. L. Lawton	$10 00
Chas. Johnson	6 00
Mrs. Scudder	5 00
W. E. Varker	10 00
Cash	1 0
Last	10 00
John Campbell	10 00
Previously acknowledged	275 00
Total	[illegible]

The citizens of El Paso have responded liberally, and no doubt in most cases it has been through the natural generous impulses of kind hearts and without stopping to think whether there might be great necessity for it. When the GAZETTE representative was in Burlington he did not have time to visit the poor ranchmen in their homes, but with the men with whom he talked tried to impress upon them the disgrace and shame of asking for help unless it was actually needed. This was done because there was some opposition in Burlington to asking for help, although the poverty was generally admitted. The following affidavit was received yesterday, and should be satisfying to every one, or at least after such appeal, who could refuse.

BURLINGTON, Colo., Jan. 19, 1891.

To Whom it May Concern.

We the undersigned tax payers of Kit Carson county, Colorado, do solemnly swear that we know of our own personal knowledge that there is actual suffering in our county, and unless some of our people get fuel and food immediately there will be severe suffering.

Character Building.

Sunday services at the First Congregational church, corner of St. Vrain and Tejon streets, at 11 a. m. and 7 p. m. The series of Sunday evening sermons recently given by Rev. James B. Gregg, of the First Congregational church, on "Great Questions," has awakened an unusually deep and wide spread interest.

Those who have listened to these discourses will be interested to know that next Sunday evening Mr. Gregg will begin a series of sermons designed to be supplementary to the series just concluded. The former series was doctrinal in its character, the coming series will be more directly practical. Under the general heading of "Character Building" the successive subjects will be as follows:

1. "Character Building through the House."
2. "Character Building through the School."
3. "Character Building through Society."
4. "Character Building through Papers and Books."
5. "Character Building through Nature."
6. "Character Building through Business."
7. "Character Building through the State."
8. "Character Building through the Church."
9. "Character Building through Jesus Christ."

President Manvel Arrives.

President Manvel, of the Santa Fe system of railroads, accompanied by Mr. A. A. Robinson, first vice president, Mr. [illegible], one of the directors, and Manager Colbran of the Midland, arrived in the city yesterday afternoon, their car being attached to the Nellie Bly train. They were met at the depot by Mr. J. J. Hagerman and the car was immediately transferred to the Midland and the party went for an inspection of the shops at Colorado City. At 6:20 this morning they leave for a trip over the line of the Midland road and will return to the city early next week.

"Carmen" as done by the Kimball Opera Comique and Burlesque company, [illegible] was similar to the production of "[illegible] Up to Date," now being presented by the London Gaiety company [illegible] theatre on the other side. It is an entirely original construction conceived by Mrs. Jennie Kimball, who, [illegible] that Corinne had never had a good opportunity to display her ability, and recognizing in her temperament and appearance the advantages of which she would be possessed in assuming the role of Carmen, determined to elaborately produce a burlesque of the opera. The production was so successful that it came quite the [illegible] in New York. Corinne's Spanish dances are said to have been the talk of the town. The company now embraces sixty, and among them are [illegible] of the most [illegible] artists [illegible] in America. The famous Toreador song is rendered by the [illegible] baritone Mr. Bernard [illegible] Corinne in Carmen is booked at the opera house Monday night next.

Mr. [illegible] Finch, for some time connected with the Republic, has purchased a half interest in Mr. S. N. Francis' Pikes Peak Herald and job office. The [illegible] Publishing company [illegible] to occupy No. 9 Pikes Peak avenue. The [illegible] will soon be known as newspaper row.

MANITOU SPRINGS.

The [illegible] is still the talk of the town.

Real estate is on the improve and getting better every day.

Chas A. Grant is on the sick list, but is fast recovering.

General Chas. Adams who has been sick for some time is out and around again.

It is rumored that Mr. C. W. Barker intends putting an addition on his hotel this coming spring.

The W. A. Bell Hook and Ladder company had their annual election meeting on the 15th of this month.

The Leddy building which is being built by Wm. Fazzell, is fast nearing completion and when finished will be a beautiful structure.

Mr. Norman C. Jones, who has recently purchased some property of Mr. J. W. Green, has quite a force of men at work on the land building a large lime kiln.

Mr. Hall, who has been in the employ of the C. L. Smith Mercantile company for the past four months, shot a fine young deer up in Williams canon yesterday.

A Significant Vote.

TOPEKA, Kas., January 23.—The vote in the lower house of the legislature this afternoon on the question of referring to a special committee a memorial from the union veterans of Topeka, praying for the return of Mr. Ingalls to the senate, has created some disturbance among the alliance forces, and corresponding confidence among the Ingalls people.

The question was whether the memorial should be referred to a special committee or should be spread upon the house journal. The republicans insisted on the latter proceeding; the alliance leaders urged the former. The resolution was finally referred to the committee, the vote being 87 yeas and 38 nays. Thirteen alliance members voted with the republicans, while the eight democrats voted with the alliance.

This vote is taken as a possible indication of the vote on senator. In joint session it will require eighty-three votes to elect a senator. Should the thirteen alliance men who stood by Ingalls today vote for his re-election, and should the democrats vote for their own candidate, the ballot would stand: Ingalls 76, alliance candidate 80, democratic candidate 9. Then should the democrats join the alliance forces, the opposition to Ingalls would aggregate eighty-nine votes, a majority. Should they decline, a deadlock would ensue.

Condition of Trade.

NEW YORK, January 23.—R. G. Dun's Weekly Review of Trade says: It has been noteworthy throughout recent financial troubles that western centers of trade have been comparatively free from disturbance or apprehension, and now the energy and growth of the west have their effect in larger trade and stronger confidence in eastern commercial centers. In the reports of this week a moderate but steady increase in the volume of business compared with last year is the most striking feature.

At Chicago a heavy increase in all grain receipts and in cured meats and hides is noted, a decrease in lard and dressed beef, but in dry goods and clothing the trade is much larger than a year ago and somewhat larger in boots and shoes. Trading is heavy and no fears are observed.

At Cincinnati the clothing and shoe trades are particularly active.

At St. Louis trade is strong in nearly all lines.

At Kansas City the failure of a bank has scarcely any effect upon business. Receipts of cattle are 22,000 and of hogs 84,000, and the banks are taking care of their customers.

The iron trade is stiffened by the large decrease in production. The demand for bar does not improve, however. Orders for plates are somewhat heavy, and the trade in structural iron is only about fair; but in pipes excellent.

The coal trade is comparatively quiet. Copper and tin are steady, and lead a little weaker. The market for breadstuffs has been stronger, and wheat advanced a quarter, corn one cent, and oats three quarters, while pork and lard are a shade lower. Coffee is 15 cents per 100 pounds lower than a week ago on small dealings, and oil 3½ cents higher, but cotton is one-eighth lower.

There is no material change in the monetary situation, though the treasury has put out $200,000 more of old money than it has taken in, and has issued in addition $800,000 more silver notes. The return of money from the interior pushes the rate downward here, and greater ease is noted at most eastern points with a better demand for commercial paper. The exports of domestic products continue larger than a year ago and the excess of exports over imports is so heavy that sterling exchange does not advance, though sales of stock on foreign account occasionally appear.

The business failures occurring throughout the country during the last seven days number 380, as compared with a total of 411 last week. For the corresponding week of last year the figures were 338.

Caught on a Trestle.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., January 23.—This morning the fast express on the North Pennsylvania road ran down a party of three Hungarians on the trestle bridge across a creek, three miles from here, killing Anthony Gesmith and Joseph Cantos. Joseph Smodji escaped without injury. The men were in search of work.

Fire at Longmont.

DENVER, January 24.—The general merchandise store of Boyle & Comstock at Longmont was destroyed by fire to-night. Loss on stock $14,000; partially insured.

Senator Hearst Very Low.

WASHINGTON, January 23.—Senator Hearst is very low to-night. Blood poisoning has set in and death may be expected within a few days.

Weather Indications.

Fifty First Congress

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, January 23.—The senate met at 11 o'clock in continuation of yesterday's session and the vice president immediately recognized Cockrell to proceed with his speech, pending which Gorman raised the point that there was no quorum present.

During the call Chandler of New Hampshire, who has been absent for some days, made his appearance in the senate chamber. Only thirty-eight senators responded, but at 11:30 the requisite number to make a quorum, forty-five, had appeared, the last being Aldrich, and business was proceeded with.

Cockrell thereupon resumed the floor in order to continue his argument against the cloture resolution.

He yielded however to Hoar who said that he desired to add one idea to what had been said last evening. He regarded the pending proposition he said as he should if the case had arisen in the supreme court of the United States. There was no one who would not recognize the importance of absolute free and untrammeled discussion in that tribunal, and that no member of the court should be curtailed in stating his opinion to his brethren or in suggesting any modification of any judgment expected to be pronounced. But if it could be conceived of that august tribunal that in the case of some controversy about to pass into judgment affecting the interests of large portions of the American people and exciting their feelings four members of the nine should undertake to read opinions alternately day after day, night after night and week after week, one taking turns with the other, and having read all the decisions which had been made since the foundation of the government, and in that way to prevent the action of the court altogether or to postpone it until the judgment would cease to be effectual, would anybody doubt that it would be the duty of that great tribunal to interfere and to adopt some rule that would put a limit to the length of opinions or to the length of the number of arguments that should be made by the minority?

Would anybody claim that action would be inconsistent with the fullest respect for untrammeled freedom of discussion or suggestion when used in good faith? It was almost an affront to the name and character of that illustrious bench even to suppose possible what he had supposed. But that bench was certainly no more important, august or illustrious, and no higher in constitutional functions than the senate of the United States.

Cockrell again took the floor and resumed his argument against the closure rule.

Gray followed Cockrell in opposition to the proposed rule and against the elections bill. Gray mentioned some of the western newspapers that opposed the elections bill, the Omaha Bee, the Minneapolis Journal, the St. Paul Pioneer-Press, the Globe-Democrat and the Denver Republican.

In reference to the last mentioned paper, Mr. Teller spoke of it as the leading paper of Denver and of that section of the country, and Mr. Wolcott added that its proprietor (Mr. Hill) was the gentleman whose name had been sent to the senate by the president as one of the monetary commissioners and who he hoped would be confirmed at the earliest opportunity.

Gray said he was glad to hear that the paper has the imprimatur of the president. The gentleman (he understood) had formerly been a member of the senate.

Wolcott assented, and remarked that the senator from Montana (Sanders) had asked him in a very feeble voice if the proprietor of the Denver Republican was a good man. The answer was that he was formerly a member of this body. [Laughter.]

Stewart then took the floor, but the hour of six having arrived the senate took a recess until 11 o'clock.

HOUSE.

Breckinridge, of Arkansas, caused the usual delay this morning in the approval of the journal, but that was finally accomplished after it had been read in full.

Cooper, of Indiana, rising to a question of privilege, sent to the clerk's desk and had read a resolution offered by him on September 4th last, making certain charges against the commissioner of pensions and asking for a broadening of the investigation of that official.

He (Mr. Cooper) then offered a resolution directing the investigating committee to report it.

McKinley, of Ohio, raised the point of order that the question presented was not a privileged one.

The speaker ruled that the resolution offered by Cooper was a privileged one, and overruled the point of order against it.

Cooper then proceeded to advocate his resolution and to attack the administration of the pension bureau, and he also criticised the action of John Raum, son of the commissioner.

Henderson, Smith and Cannon (Illinois) briefly defended the commissioner of pensions.

The house then—yeas 143, nays 95—went into committee of the whole (Mr. Burrows, of Michigan, in the chair) on the naval appropriation bill.

Without making any progress with the bill, the committee arose and the house adjourned.

A Curiosity.

"Ladies and gentlemen," said the lecturer of the dime museum, "this is the young mother and her baby that we have secured at a salary of $1,000 per week."

"What's there peculiar about 'em?" queried an auditor.

"What's there peculiar about 'em? Why, this. The baby is very homely, and the mother is willing to admit that it isn't the handsomest baby in the world."—Cape Cod Item.

Mr. K—, an epicurean smoker was traveling on the railway with a passenger from Berlin who was smoking a horrid cigar. As all hints and signs proved unavailing Mr. K— had recourse to an often tried experiment. Rising from his seat, he politely said:

"Will you allow me to open the window?"

At the same time he "quite accidentally" brushed against the hand of his fellow passenger, causing him to drop his cigar. Mr. K— had the additional misfortune to step on it, and said in alarm:

"Oh! I beg a thousand pardons! Allow me to offer you one of mine; they are not half bad."

"With your kind permission," answered the Berliner, quite pleased. He took three cigars out of the case presented to him and put them into his pocket, saying:

"These are a first rate brand. I'll smoke 'em on Sundays."

And with that he proceeded to light another of his own.—Nueste Nachrichten.

His Soft Heart.

A foreman in a factory was so soft hearted that he never could bring himself to fire a man in so many words. When it became necessary to get rid of a hand he used to send for the victim and address him thus: "I'm sorry, Wilhelm, but I lays you off for a while."

"How long for?" is the usual response.

"Oh! I doan know—maybe six months, maybe a year, or two years or ten years—I doan know!"—Pittsburg Dispatch.

TRUSTEE'S SALE.

Whereas, Thomas G. Bell, of the county of El Paso and state of Colorado, did on the 31st day of October, A. D. 1889, by his certain deed of trust of that date, duly recorded in the office of the county clerk and recorder of El Paso county, state of Colorado, on the 31st day of October, A. D., 1889, in book 97, page 346, convey to the undersigned, W. H. McIntyre, of said county, as trustee, or in case of his failure for any reason to act as such trustee, then to the then acting county clerk of said El Paso county, Colorado, as his successor in trust, the following described real estate, situated in the county of El Paso and state of Colorado, to wit: All that part of lot number twenty (20), in block number one hundred and fifty-seven (157), in the town of Colorado City, county and state aforesaid. Beginning at the southwest corner of said lot, run thence northeasterly along the line between lots twenty (20) and twenty-one (21) one hundred and twenty (120) feet to the northwest corner of said lot twenty (20), thence southeasterly parallel with Colorado Avenue, fifteen (15) feet, thence parallel with the side lines of said lot, one hundred and twenty (120) feet to Colorado Avenue, thence fifteen (15) feet to place of beginning, which conveyance was made in trust to secure the payment to Messrs. Trimble and Hunter, of a promissory note of even date therewith, payable two years after date for the principal sum of seven hundred and fifty dollars ($750) with interest thereon from date until paid at the rate of ten (10) per cent per annum, and

Whereas, the said deed of trust provides that in case of default in payment of said sum of money according to the tenor and effect of said promissory note, or any part thereof, or any interest thereon, then, in that case, the said trustee, or in case of his failure for any cause to act, then the said successor in trust, the then acting county clerk of El Paso county, Colorado, shall sell the said real estate for the purpose of paying the principal and interest of said note, and the expenses connected with the execution of said trust, and

Whereas, the day of payment of said principal sum is past, and default has been made in the payment of same, and interest thereon.

Now, therefore, at the request of the legal holder of said note, and by virtue of the authority in us vested by the terms of said deed of trust, I, W. H. McIntyre, the undersigned, trustee, as aforesaid, or in case of my failure for any reason to act, then the undersigned, F. W. Howbert, the now acting county clerk of El Paso county, Colorado, successor in trust, will on the second (2) day of February, A. D., 1891, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, at the front door of the county clerk's office, in the city of Colorado Springs, county of El Paso and State of Colorado, sell the above described property, at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash in hand, for the purpose of paying said promissory note and interest thereon, together with the costs and expenses of executing this trust.

W. H. McINTYRE, Trustee.
F. W. HOWBERT, county clerk, El Paso county, Colorado, successor in trust.

THE GAZETTE.
SATURDAY, JANUARY 31, 1891.

Do you know Ole Olson?

Postoffice Inspector Lawrence of Denver, was a casual visitor in the city yesterday

A marriage license was issued yesterday to John T Keyser and Miss Mamie Mavily both of Florissant

Judge Campbell and Stenographer Adams arrived from Park county yesterday, where they have been attending court

Almon Calkins who used a knife at the Salvation army, will have his hearing before Justice Farrar this morning at 10 o'clock

Miss Helen Allen pleasantly entertained a small party at cards last evening at the residence of her brother, Commissioner J C Plumb South Corona street

The school board is somewhat puzzled to know what it is going to do for school room for the Eighth grade if the city council decides to use the city hall for council purposes

Mr R W Elstun of the real estate firm of Gove & Elstun of Denver a cousin of County Treasurer McCreery, is visiting him this week, but is confined to the house by rheumatism.

The GAZETTE has a letter from Captain DeCoursey that will be printed tomorrow, containing an account of an interview with Hon. Geo W. Childs, that will be of universal interest to the people of this city.

Mr J J Hagerman Mr Henry C Lowe and party returned Thursday from the Pecos valley, and report affairs flourishing better then the most sanguine anticipated. Eddy now has a population of over 1900 people

Postmaster Everleth has had the time extended in which bids can be offered for furnishing quarters for the office until and including next Thursday No bids have so far been put in and there is very little talk on the streets regarding the matter

The athletic club at their last meeting appointed a committee to prepare for an indoor tournament to take place in about three weeks time This will be a meeting for which special effort will be made to provide entertainment for the gentler sex. There will be fencing competitions, club swinging vaulting on the wooden horse, exercises on the parallel and horizontal bars, boxing by the members, and other indoor sports. Any member not yet entered who desires to compete should communicate with any one of the committee, Messrs. C. D Bennet, G. M. King, F A Carnduff.

The largest train of machinery ever sent over the Rocky mountains left this city yesterday afternoon It consisted of 125 cars, pulled by four engines, consigned to the Co operative Wagon and Machine company of Salt Lake City, and was gotten together by Messrs E R. Ingersoll and E D Baxter, contracting freight agents of the Midland Photographer Jackson of Denver came down and took an excellent picture of the train at Manitou Iron springs, of which a lithograph copy will be made and sent out as an advertisement of the Midland The shipment was in charge of Mr G T Odell

The second of Professor Cajori's scientific lectures was given in the college hall yesterday afternoon A good sized and attentive audience was present, containing, besides the students, a large proportion of outsiders. The professor took "The Polarization of Light" as his subject, and made it very interesting The experiments consisted of throwing the polarized light upon a white screen first through a revolving Nicol's prism, showing the extinction of the ray at certain angles After this the light was sent through films of selenite, Iceland spar, mica and quartz, exhibiting a series of interesting and beautiful phenomena The lecture closed with an exhaustive explanation of the polarization of light illustrated by various diagrams and models

Mr. Allen N Phelps, an experienced hotel man, well known both in this city and in Denver, has leased the old Grand View hotel building, on the corner of Cascade avenue and Vermijo street, and is having it repaired and remodeled for occupancy as the best $2 hotel in Colorado Every room has been replastered and papered the woodwork has been repainted, new electric fixtures have been introduced throughout the plumbing arrangements have been remodeled, and the whole building renovated The new hotel will be called the St. James, and will be opened on the morning of February 1 It is the intention to make this a pleasant home for permanent as well as transient guests, and especial attention will be paid to the cuisine. Mr Phelps has had a very extended experience in providing for a hotel, and he will have Fred Hubbard the chef at the Alta Vista for some time, for his chief cook

Durkee hall was filled to the doors last night at the meeting held for the purpose of organizing a council of the Order of Chosen Friends in this city A male quartette, consisting of Messrs. Rose, Bumstead, Seymour and Mulholland, opened the programme after which Mrs. Wright sang a solo Dr Horn then delivered an address, stating the advantages of secret societies, and referring to the benefits, social and financial, of this order Messrs Kelley, Parsons and Dennis rendered a banjo and guitar selection, which was enthusiastically encored and then Mr David Fownes, deputy supreme council of the order, made a lengthy address, detailing its advantages and benefits This was followed by a vocal solo, "The Angels' Serenade," with a violin obligato by Miss Rohr and Mr Metz This was a most pleasing selection, and was admirably rendered Three more musical selections were given, and the meeting adjourned A preliminary meeting of the council will be held in the K. of P. hall Monday night for the purpose of organization, and it is expected that nearly 100 will join the order as charter members. Mr Fownes will be at Dr. Horn's office all day to-day to receive applications for membership and answer any questions that may be asked concerning the order
